IN THE NEWS:

February 11, 2010 (Lifesitenews.com) Maddy Curtis, the 16-year old who endeared American Idol viewers with her winning personality was cut from the show. But, says Maddy, from her perspective her American Idol adventure was far from a failure.

In an interview with LifeSiteNews.com, Maddy said, “What was so great about [the experience] was not necessarily making it that far, but the story that got out about our family, and the pro-life message that was shown to the world.”

You see, Maddy comes from a family of 12 children, 4 of whom have Down Syndrome.

The Idol episode where Maddy first auditioned gave prominent play to Maddy’s home life, featuring footage of her playing with her siblings (three of whom were adopted), and airing her comments about what life is like with siblings with Down Syndrome.

“I think some people are a little skeptical of Down Syndrome,” she said in that episode, as tears welled up into her eyes. But, she said, “Those four boys bring out the best in every person they meet. They see the world in colors, and we need to see the world that way.”

When asked why she thought people were so moved by her family’s story, she responded, “I feel like it’s probably because kids with Down Syndrome aren’t given the chance—like 90% of kids with Down Syndrome are aborted.”

In fact, it was only a year ago that her mom first told her about the high abortion rate for babies with Down Syndrome. “I couldn’t stop crying,” she said, “because I couldn’t believe it.”

Barbara Curtis, Maddy’s mother, said of her daughter, “She’s naturally just more selfless because she’s looking out for them. I think people were intrigued because they might not put that idea together logically, but there was something very intriguing about her because she was so in love with life and with the situation that God put her in. Maddy is who she is because she grew up in a certain kind of family and if people understood how wonderful kids with Down Syndrome are and the transformative power that they have in a family, everyone would want one.”

2010 WEST COAST WALK FOR LIFE

Yuba-Sutter Right to Life participants were among the roughly 40,000 people who braved the rain and cold of San Francisco on January 23rd to speak up for LIFE! Interestingly enough, the opposition was much smaller and significantly less vocal than in previous years. It’s clear they’re not as passionate about death as we are about life! Those in attendance were treated to inspiring speeches, including one from Abbey Johnson, the Planned Parenthood director who quit her job and became pro-life after witnessing an ultrasound guided abortion. If you missed it this year, join us in 2011. I guarantee you’ll be forever changed!

Yuba-Sutter Right to Life thanks RICHARD’S TREE SERVICE for donating billboard space at Hwy 99 & Oswald for our “I regret my abortion” Silent No More Awareness campaign!

Philadelphia, PA, February 26, 2010 (Operation Rescue) Abortionist Kermit Gosnell had his license suspended Monday after authorities investigating an abortion death discovered dozens of fetal remains and “deplorable and unsanitary” conditions in his clinic.

Gosnell’s recent troubles began after a 41 year old woman died on November 20, 2009, during an abortion in her 18th or 19th week of pregnancy. She was overdosed on painkillers which were illegally administered by an unlicensed worker. The deceased woman’s brother told reporter’s that Gosnell’s clinic was “dirty and bloody.”

This is not the first death for Gosnell. Another woman died in March of 2000, two days after Gosnell perforated her uterus during an abortion. She developed sepsis and died, leaving two children motherless.

Another woman is lucky to be alive after a botched abortion by Gosnell in 1999. She developed a high fever and became unconscious a week after her abortion. She was rushed to the hospital where the reason for her condition was discovered. “They showed me x-rays and said he [Gosnell] left an arm and a leg inside me.”

Then there was the illegal abortion of a 13-year old girl who says Gosnell performed an abortion on her without the required parental consent. The girl, now 32, told reporters she could see jars filled with the remains of “little babies” and that after her abortion, she “saw Gosnell cradling a bottle that contained the remains of her fetus.”

Abortion exploits and enslaves women, expert warns.

An expert on violence against women has warned that the “right to abortion” enslaves women and leaves them vulnerable to exploitation and abuse.

According to Inigo Azpitarte of Professionals for Ethics, “If a man thinks that abortion is an easily accessible option for a woman, he will easily feel disconnected from her and leave her with an unwanted pregnancy—since she can easily obtain an abortion.”

Azpitarte’s comments came as a result of an article posted on a popular men’s website which advised men on how to pressure or coerce their partner into abortion.

In the article, which was withdrawn after numerous complaints, author Isabella Snow suggested that the man threaten to withdraw his support if the woman has the baby anyway. She wrote, “This was her decision, not yours, and the bulk of the responsibility is now hers. Take a moment to spell this out for her when she gives you her final decision; it just may sway her over to your side.”

Coercion happens all too frequently. One survey found that 64% of American women who had abortions said they felt pressured by others to abort.

PRAYER FOR THE PRO-CHOICE

Loving and merciful Father,
You who are life and wisdom itself,
Remove the veil which blinds
Our pro-choice brothers and sisters.
Plant within their heart the seed of your truth.
Grant that it may germinate in the blood of your Son
And grow in the warmth of your love;
Reaching to the heavens from which it came,
And resting in peaceful repose at your holy feet.
May the seed you plant become a mighty Oak,
Standing firm against the culture of death,
Stretching its branches
Until all the earth is blanketed by your truth
And shaded in your love.
Amen.
